

Capital Campaign: “Built on tradition. Embracing the future.”

The Capital Campaign Committee has adopted the theme “Built on tradition. Embracing the future.” for the upcoming campaign. The campaign will be described in detail at the Quarterly Congregational Meeting on May 4 after worship. The committee and the church council are excited about the many projects the campaign will allow Our Savior’s to accomplish in the next few years as we build on our deep traditions, and move forward embracing the future of ministry and welcome at 6th and Division.

Having had a series of meetings since early December 2013, the committee has reviewed many projects considered by the church council during the past several years, and studied the historical context going back to the strategic planning process of 1994-96. After this careful study the committee will present a group of projects, some with some urgency, that the committee believes will best embrace the future for the Lord’s ministry at Our Savior’s Lutheran Church.

Please come to the Quarterly Meeting on May 4. If you have questions please feel free to contact any Capital Campaign Committee member including:
